TRIPLE HONORS—Greg Smith, left, manager of Buccaneer State Park in Waveland, has been selected from among 27 state park managers in Mississippi as 'Manager of The Year.' Joe Rieux of Bay St. Louis, Buccaneer maintenance supervisor, took the first 'Maintenance Man of The Year' honors to be awarded by the Mississippi Bureau of Recreation and Parks. The two were cited at an awards banquet held in conjunction with the July monthly state parks managers meeting in Holmes County State Park. Smith, in his fifth summer as Buccaneer manager and a Tylertown native, is only the third park manager to receive this honor. He holds a BS degree in park administration and recreation from USM. The park was also cited for the second year as 'Best Maintained Park' in the state. Rieux has been maintenance supervisor for two years. Buccaneer Park will be featured on PM Magazine to be aired at 4:30 p.m. Friday, July 31 by WWL-TV, Channel 4, New Orleans. (Staff photo by Edgar Perez)

Authority. The Bay Council is yet to take positive action on the issue, and was slated to meet again last night in Bay St. Louis to hear a proposal from the firm of Owen and White of Baton Rouge, La. on feasibility of over-land disposal of the city's sewerage. (Staff photo by Brent Macey)

Bay moves to join Waveland Authority

By BRENT MACEY

The Bay St. Louis City Council Tuesday approved a resolution to advise the city's intent to join the Waveland Wastewater Authority.

Councilman James Thriffley, who proposed the resolution, told other councilmen the city is not obliged to join the authority. Gerald Gex, board attorney, stated the resolution is in no way binding.

Thriffley stated the resolution of intent to join will be published to allow input from citizens.

If 50 percent of the voting public is not in favor then the issue must be decided by vote, he said.

The resolution states Bay St. Louis will join contingent upon the following requirements:

"That the City of Bay St. Louis have access to all financial reports, audits, loans, applications, grant applications, business reports, water quality reports, and all other data on the Waveland Wastewater facility since its planning and developing stages up to the present time.

Councilman Seldon Seuzeneau an-mended that resolution to include 'satisfactory representation and financial structures of governmental authorities.'

He stated he felt the governing bodies included in the present Waveland Wastewater Authority would not give Bay St. Louis equal representation.

Currently the Waveland Authority's board is composed of Bay St. Louis Mayor Larry Bennett, Waveland Mayor John Longo, and President of the Hancock County Board of Supervisors Alton (Dolph) Keller.

Each member has one vote.

"That only leaves us one vote, and we would always have two votes against us," Seuzeneau said about the current authority's governing structure.

"If it came to an important issue we would be like a lost ball in high weeds," he added.

Seuzeneau suggested the board be composed of the mayors of both cities, an alderman from Waveland, a councilman from Bay St. Louis and the county Board 5 supervisor.

"We need the Bay 5 representative since he would be conducive to holding in favor of Bay St. Louis," Seuzeneau said.

Longo, during a telephone interview Wednesday, stated the current authority's governing body "is the most agreeable to Waveland, Bay St. Louis and the county."

"If that is not satisfactory then I'm not in favor of having them join. Not if the balance of power is going to be on their (Bay St. Louis) side," he said.

"Waveland has the best treatment facility in the country and they have nothing," he added.

He added Waveland runs sewerage tests for the city of Bay St. Louis for nothing—an expense which he said would normally cost the city $1,000 a month.

Longo said more representation would be a mob.

"We don't need that," he said.

He added changes would have to be made in laws established by state legislature concerning the acceptance of the Waveland Authority as a separate wastewater authority with its own government.

Policeman, businessman charged with conspiracy

By ELLIS CUEVAS

A Bay St. Louis Policeman and a motel manager have been arrested by Hancock Investigators Alvin Ladner and Delbert Seay and Highway Patrol Investigator Bobby Parker for allegedly plotting to maim a Pascagoula man and kidnap his son, according to Hancock Sheriff Ronald Peterson.

Peterson said that Niels (Chris) Sands Jr., 32, Rt. 2, Box 481, Bay St. Louis, a Bay policeman, was arrested

Monday and charged with conspiracy to commit mayhem.

Boballa Bharatkumar, 32, manager of the Driftwood Motel, Bay St. Louis has been charged with conspiracy to commit mayhem and conspiracy to kidnap, according to Peterson.

Peterson reported Wednesday that the investigation is continuing as Highway investigators seek to talk to the Pascagoula man who was to have been 'taken care of.' His name has not been released by authorities.

"The motel manager allegedly wanted the Pascagoula resident beaten up, blinded or crippled, and asked Sands if he knew someone who could do the job. Sands then contacted an individual, asking him if he wanted to make some money," Peterson explained.

"A meeting of the three took place at the Driftwood Motel, where the person contacted by Sands allegedly talked to him and Bharatkumar about a plot to

Executive session denied

More cuts requested in Bay school budget

By BRENT MACEY

A request by Bay St. Louis School District Superintendent J.D. McCullough to discuss 1981-82 fiscal budget cuts in executive session Monday was rejected by the school board.

Walter Turcotte, board president, asked for a motion to enter executive session but trustees remained silent and the meeting continued in open session.

McCullough had stated he wanted to meet in executive session to discuss personnel matters relating to the budget.

The budget was expected to be adopted at the Monday meeting, and McCullough reminded the trustees that the budget should have been approved by July 15.

However, school trustees opted not to approve McCullough's recommended 1981-82 budget when they discovered a serious budget problem would result in the 1982-83 school year if this coming year's budget is not cut further.

Instead of approving, they agreed to return the budget to the superintendent with instructions he bring the budget back to the school principals to determine where further cuts can be made.

The trustees asked McCullough to try to shave an additional $25,000 (5 percent) of some $500,000 currently proposed for operation and maintenance of the school system.

If the requested $25,000 cannot be cut, the trustee's told McCullough to do the best he can.

The trustees then agreed to meet again next Monday to discuss the budget.

Kelly McQueen, business manager for the district, said the district has had a surplus from the previous years. That money was used to support the district through October, November, and December of the beginning school year until taxes can be collected in January, he stated.

"It's not really a surplus," he said.

McQueen said some $121,000 has been carried over from last year's budget. He noted the decrease from $110,000 left from the 1979-80 school year for the past school year's budget.

He said there would be no money left over for the 1982-83 school year budget with only $121,000 going toward this coming year.

McCullough explained expenditures are increasing at a greater rate than the amount of revenue.

He said the district used to borrow money during months when the surplus was not enough and repaid the money

Erosion studied at McLeod Park

By BRENT MACEY

Federal, regional and local officials met in Hancock County recently on the banks of the Jourdan River in McLeod Park to consider ways of halting devastating erosion in the area.

Representatives of the U.S. Corps of Engineers and Pearl River Basin Development District, the director and a commissioner of McLeod Park, and a Hancock County supervisor discussed what might be done to alleviate the erosion described as 'a terrible loss to the park.'

Mary Caillier, park director, told the officials, "You've got to do something. Erosion is eating the park up."

Some 60 to 75 feet of land has been washed away in the past two years in an area near the park pavilion.

Caillier feels this insidious river destruction will eventually topple the building if something is not done.

Already some roads leading to camp grounds have been closed. Others are threatened as supporting banks crumble.

Three alternatives were discussed by the representatives to solve the

Corrections

An article reporting on a Bay St. Louis City Council meeting in Sunday's edition of The Sea Coast Echo incorrectly stated Earl Lizans was reappointed Fire Chief. Andrew Lizans was reappointed Bay St. Louis Fire Chief.

An article in the Thursday edition of The Sea Coast Echo stated the trial date for R.D. Rippetoe was not set. The trial date is set July 27, 1981. The Echo apologizes for these errors.

Clarification

In the Hancock County Port and Harbor story appearing in the July 19 issue of The Sea Coast Echo, it was stated that the proposed budget presented by W.W. Wehre, executive director, was given a rubber stamp approval by the commissioners.

The approval was by a 5-1 margin with Commissioner Bud Frierson voting against the proposed budget to go before the Hancock County Board of Supervisors.

Wehre would not provide a copy of the proposed budget to the press, saying the supervisor's attorney had contacted the attorney general's office, and said it was not necessary until the commission budget was approved by the supervisors.

A statement in the story about a proposed increase of the commissioners' salary from $150 to $200 should have been retained fees for commission attorneys.

The Echo regrets any inconvenience which may have occurred.

CHINA CITIES

"Cities in China," a program of three films that capture the sights and sounds of life in the Chinese cities of Suzhou (soo-joh), Xian (shee-an) and Beijing (bay-jing), can be seen at 9 p.m. Saturday, July 25, on the Mississippi ETV Network.

SILENT SPRING

The historic 1963 CBS documentary on Rachel Carson's charges that indiscriminate use of pesticides was endangering the environment and the people in it will be rebroadcast on Mississippi ETV at 7 p.m. Saturday, July 25.

"The Silent Spring of Rachel Carson," based on her 1962 book, "Silent Spring," and reported by Eric Sevareid, examines the extent to which pesticides at that time were believed to be endangering man and the environment and the extent to which their use has benefited mankind.

Discussed are the uses of pesticides, how they affect the growth and reproduction of fish and wildlife, whether pesticide residues are stored in the human body and the need for sufficient controls to ensure safe usage.

In its examination of the pesticide problem and what might be done about it, the broadcast presents the views of industry, prominent scientists, farmers and government experts, along with those of Miss Carson.

Barry Commoner is interviewed in an update to the 1963 CBS film. He says that there is more toxic material disseminated into the environment now than was thought in the early '60's.

There is an age-old problem that keeps coming up in Hancock County. The problem is the removal of signs posted by our officials, such as speed limits and stop signs.

A prime example of what we are talking about is the fact that the City of Bay St. Louis installed some no truck signs on North Beach between US-90 and Main Street. They only lasted a few days until signs and posts were removed by some unauthorized person or persons.

Signs, to begin with, cost money, additional money is spent on the erection of the signs. Another reason is the signs are placed to tell motorists something of importance.

We urge all citizens to be on the lookout for persons removing signs, and if they see someone, please call the police immediately. We must remember, all of us continue to pay to have the signs replaced that are illegally removed and loss of someone's life could result from signs being removed.

Congratulations are in order for the Bay St. Louis Little League players in the ten-year-old bracket who won the state championship Saturday night at McDonald Field.

We realize the all-stars selected from the various teams won the championship, but we feel it is really a championship won by the whole league. There are only so many players who can be selected on the all-star team and many of those who did not play, we are sure are all-stars.

Appreciation to the team sponsors, managers, coaches and all players in the Bay St. Louis Little League should be extended for a job well done.

Billy Rhodes, Bay St. Louis Parks and Playgrounds director, has been busy this week with his staff as host for the sub-district 11 and 12-year-old Little League All-Star double elimination tournament.

The play which started on Monday night has seen the Bay St. Louis all-stars in the 11 and 12-year-old group win their first two games.

The Bay all-stars will see action tonight and stand a good chance of being the sub-district champs.

We hope many of you will turnout to night and cheer the Bay group to victory. McDonald's Field is located at Uman and Dunbar Avenues.

We know Ronnie Artigues, manager, and Jerry Seuzeneau, coach, as well as the players would like to see the stand overflowing with spectators.

We are happy that the Hancock County Lions Club will have its initial banquet on Monday night.

We know many have been working hard for several months in lining up enough for the organization to be chartered.

The banquet will be held at the Sirolo Stockade, Waveland and will start at 7:30 p.m., Monday.

NEWS FROM THE GOVERNOR'S OFFICE

The U.S. House Ways and Means Committee, in markup action on the 1981 tax bill, has rejected a plan to place new restrictions on state and local government industrial development bonds (IDBs). Governor William Winter led the effort of the nation's governors to preserve the tax-exempt status of IDBs. Winter testified before the Oversight Subcommittee of the House Ways and Means Committee and telegraphed each member of the Ways and Means Committee as part of his successful effort to ensure that this important means of promoting industrial development is retained.

Mississippi pioneered the use of tax-exempt IDBs for industrial development. Governor Winter has received much of the credit for preserving the tax-exempt status of IDBs for industrial development. Governor Winter has received much of the credit for preserving the tax-exempt status of IDBs.

In the face of federal budget cuts and economic slowdown Winter believes that Mississippi is in special need of IDB financing to continue industrial and economic development in Mississippi.

The Ways and Means Committee decided not to add to the tax bill a series of recommendations from its Oversight Subcommittee including mandatory reporting and public hearing requirements for all IDBs, strict targeting of commercial projects to narrowly defined "pockets of poverty," a comprehensive study of IDBs by the Treasury Department, and the complete elimination of tax-exempt status of IDBs effective January 1, 1984.

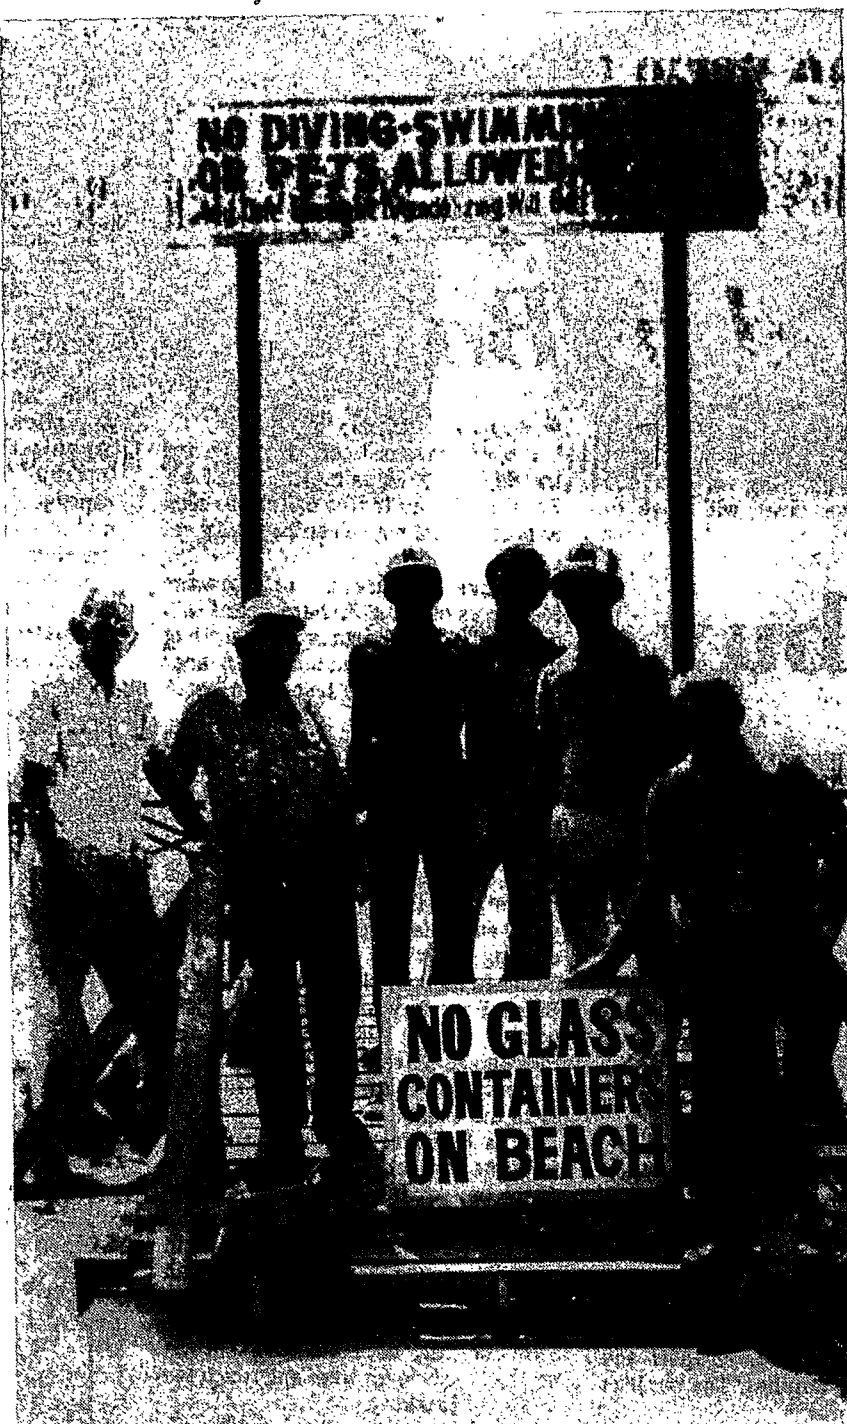

Winter opposed these measures and the Committee followed Winter's recommendations rather than those of the Oversight Subcommittee.

Winter, in a July 9 letter to the Ways and Means Committee, noted that "while the National Governors' Association does not object to more stringent requirements for reporting and public notice of IDB issues, we strongly oppose the 'sunset' provision. In addition, we are concerned that the criteria for targeting of commercial projects goes beyond standard definitions of distressed areas and would effectively preempt state authority to determine appropriate public purposes for the issuance of these bonds."

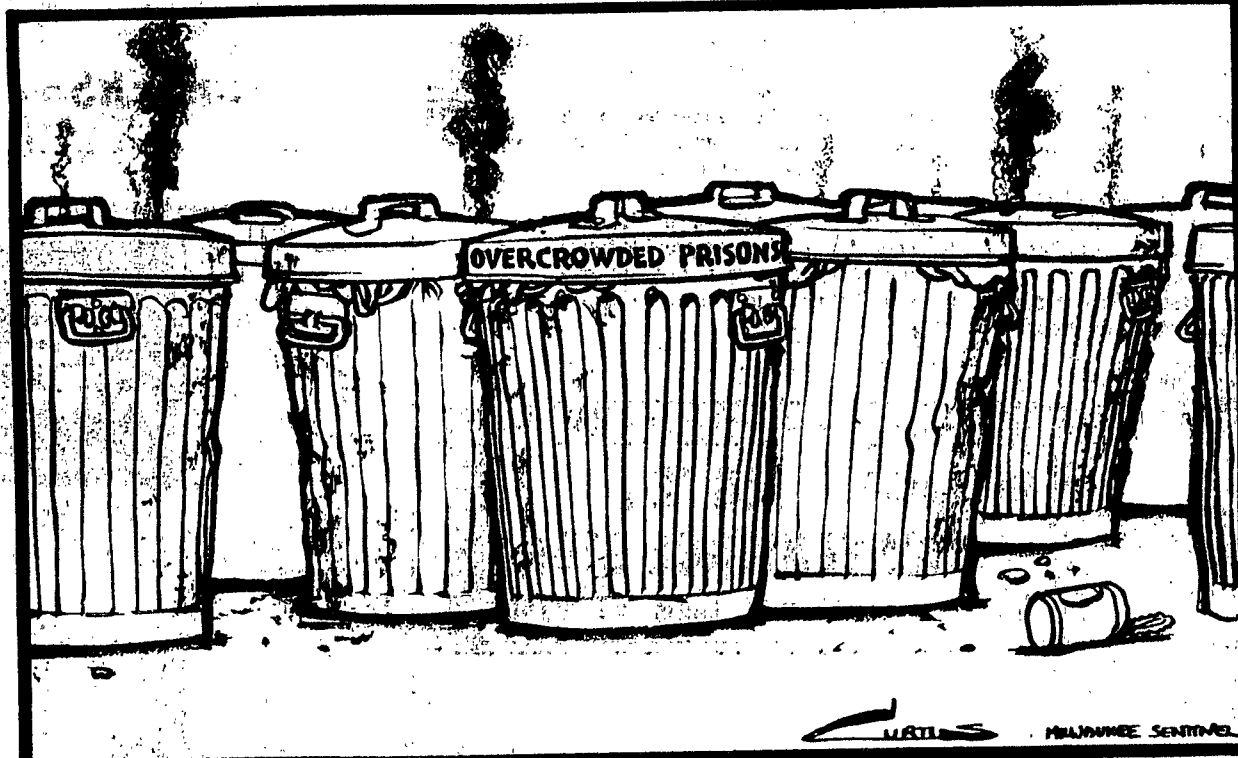

Winter added that the proposed end to the tax-exempt status of the bonds after 1983 was "totally unwarranted" and would seriously threaten "the continued ability of state and local governments to finance needed economic development projects."

BE A GOOD CITIZEN
Pride, we are told, is one of the seven capital sins. But not, we think, if that pride is in the community in which we live. Pride in a well kept yard, or in a neighborhood free of ugly trash and litter is justifiable pride. Let's have more pride in our community.

VANDALS BEWARE—Pity the poor vandal who gets caught in the act on the American Legion Pier in Bay St. Louis where, as this new sign indicates, 'Any One Caught Vandalizing Will be Persecuted.' According to Webster, it looks like such offenders caught on the pier are likely to be 'harassed in a manner designed to injure, grieve or afflict... to be annoyed with persistent or urgent approaches, attacks or pleas.' It seems to us the American Legion, owners of the pier, would be better served if 'Any One' or any two or any three caught vandalizing the pier were to be 'persecuted.' In the meantime, District Four Supervisor Sam Pernicelli, right, and his county workers who assisted the Legion in installing the new sign, are also placing the very important 'No Glass Containers' signs at various locations along the beach. Pernicelli's crew includes, from left, George LaFontaine and Henry Myers, county workers, and Emmett Galloway, Glen Dalley and LeRay Reed, CETA workers.

Senator Cochran reports

Senator Thad Cochran (R-Miss.) is sponsoring S. 881, the Small Business Innovation Research Act of 1981.

This legislation will amend the Small Business Act to strengthen the role of small, innovative firms in federally-funded research and development (R&D) and to use federal R & D as a base for technological initiative to meet agency needs.

"It is important to note that the program proposed by this bill will require no additional federal money," Senator Cochran said.

"Instead, the act mandates that each qualifying federal agency spend at least one percent of its existing research and development budget to fund deserving small business projects," he commented.

The Senator explained that small firms would be invited to submit research proposals to an agency which, in turn, would choose those most technically and economically feasible.

Initially, these proposals would be funded from $30,000 to $50,000. Phase II would then award funds of $100,000 to $500,000 for proposals judged most promising at that stage of development, giving special consideration to firms attracting outside funding commitments.

Senator Cochran is particularly pleased in this "built-in incentive to seek out private capital to pursue commercial applications of federal research."

"Our nation's small businesses have been recognized as most efficient in generating a healthy economy over the years," the Senator noted. "This productivity initiative to get new technology to the marketplace can best be accomplished by innovative small firms."

Senator Cochran concluded, "The effort of S. 881 to direct federal R & D money in this way will benefit investors—both public and private—as well as the general economy."

Petition response not all it could have been

Dear Sirs:

We appreciate the fact so many people signed our petitions Saturday to keep nuclear waste from being dumped in Richton. The manager of Choctaw Plaza allowed us to set up our table.

But of the many people who did not sign the petition for whatever reasons, we ask: If the government is allowed to dump nuclear waste 60 miles north of Gulfport who then will cry the loudest, "Why wasn't something done to stop them?"

Sincerely,

CONSUMER REPORT

BILL ALLAIN, ATTORNEY GENERAL

Attorney General Bill Allain has announced his Consumer Protection Division saved or recovered more than $143,000 for Mississippi consumers during the first six months of 1981.

Allain said, "This is the highest amount recovered since the division's formation in 1974."

Allain attributes this high degree of success to the continuing efforts of his Consumer Protection Division staff in protecting the public.

Mississippians who think they may have been defrauded or treated unfairly in the marketplace should contact Attorney General Bill Allain, Consumer Protection Division, P.O. Box 220, Jackson, Mississippi 39205.

"HOW TO AVOID FRAUDULENT INVESTMENT SCHEMES"

Attorney General Bill Allain urges consumers to be wary of investment opportunities that seem too good to be true. Allain states that you should be particularly cautious when an investment opportunity emphasizes very high yields, quick returns, a "once in a lifetime" opportunity, or the chance to get in on the ground floor.

Many of these Ponzi schemes work with the plan of paying off old investors with money coming in from new investors. A major factor in the eventual collapse of the Ponzi scheme is that there is no significant source of income other than from new investors.

Here is an example of a Ponzi scheme to give you some idea of how it works. Investor A gives the promoter $1,000 on his promise to repay $1,000 plus $100 "interest" in 90 days. During the 90 days, the promoter makes similar promises to investors B and C, receiving $1,000 each from them. At the end of the first 90-day period, the promoter may offer to pay investor A the $100 "interest" and to return his original $1,000. More, likely he will invite A to "reinvest" the $1,000 plus the $100 "interest" for a similar, or higher, return at the end of another 90 days. Thereafter, A believing he can receive a good return on his investment, is likely to bring in other investors.

In this way, the promoter collects a pool of money that he can use to pay out to those few wishing return of their money. He may operate his scheme for some time before "pulling the plug," either disappearing with all the investments or revealing the bad news that the investment went "sour."

Ponzi schemes have been around for many years and will continue to operate with success unless people learn to recognize and avoid them. Here are some important warning signs:

- Investments offering immediate and extremely high profits.
- Encouraging phone calls from strangers soliciting investments.
- New investment claims suggesting that it is a privilege to get in on the ground level.
- Inability to obtain information about the company or its past record.

"MAGAZINE SALES, DOOR-TO-DOOR"

Attorney General Bill Allain warns consumers to be careful when investing their money with unfamiliar magazine salesmen that appear at your door. Sometimes these sales people tell you that they are working their way through college, trying to win a scholarship, or competing for a trip to Europe. Allain states that you shouldn't be taken in by any such sales pitch, for such pitches may not have any basis in truth. Instead, before you say "yes" to signing a contract for magazines, make certain that you have protected yourself against making an agreement you might later regret.

Here are some ways of doing this:

1. When a sales person appears at your home, before letting them in, be sure you find out what they are selling.
2. If you are not interested in buying a magazine, don't let them in.
3. Don't be taken in by such introductions as I am taking a neighborhood survey, this magazine subscription is free, or all you have to pay for is the postage and handling.
4. If you are interested in buying a subscription, first ask for the person's credentials. Write down his name, the name of the company, his home address, and the company's address.
5. Don't be pressured into signing a contract on the spot. If you are interested ask the sales person to leave the contract so that you can read it carefully before signing.
6. Make certain that the contract includes the price that you have agreed upon with the sales person.
7. Be sure to keep a copy of the contract for your records.

State and federal laws require that door-to-door magazine sales contracts must contain a "Buyers Right to Cancel" which gives the buyer three business days to cancel the contract. If the buyer desires to cancel the contract, written notice should be sent by certified mail to the company within that time period.

Ricky Hartly, civil engineer study manager for the Corp's Mobile office, suggested lining the bank with sheet piling for some 600 feet.

However, Hartly noted the Corps can only do work which is 'economically justified.'

Hartly explained the expense of the construction must not be greater than the cost of replacing facilities which already have or might be destroyed if no preventative measures were taken.

He noted aesthetics could not be assigned a cost value.

Caillier said facilities which will eventually be destroyed include the pavilion, two water wells, and a swimming pool which is currently covered with dirt in an effort to save the Park Commission from possible law suits involved with any accidental drownings.

No value was placed on those facilities at the meeting and Hartly directed Caillier and Parks Commissioner L.J. Breaux to send the information to his department.

He said the Corps would then study the information to determine the economic feasibility of the project.

Included in that study will be analysis of average annual damage.

Hartly estimated it will take 25 years before the pavilion is destroyed by the river's forces.

He said the cost of the sheet piling is 50 cents per pound and each linear foot weighs one and one-half pounds.

He estimated 30 linear feet by 600 feet of sheet piling would be needed—an estimated $13,500 for materials alone, not including labor.

He noted a $250,000 limit for construction work of this nature is established for the Corp.

Also mentioned was possible laying of rip-rap along the bank.

That suggestion was considered a second alternative to sheet piling when Hartly noted snakes often inhabit rip-rap areas since they enjoy sunning themselves on warm rocks.

Caillier and Travira suggested a channel be cut through an 'S' curve in the river. The pavilion and wells are located on an outside bank of the 'S' curve.

A new channel, they noted, would let the river run straight through the park and thus stop bank erosion.

Questions arose about whether the Park Commission owned the land, but Caillier later found the land on the opposite bank where a new channel would be cut is owned by the commission.

Hartly said this week other organizations, including the Environmental Protection Agency and Fisheries and Wildlife Commission must become involved if the commission requests a new channel be dug through that area.

when taxes started being collected in January.

"We could do this this coming year if we had to," McCullough stated, "but we won't be able to the next."

When McQueen was asked if there was enough money allocated for this coming year's budget, he stated, "I don't think we will go in the red this year but the following year is going to be rough."

Both McCullough and McQueen agreed that the county reappraisal project will help the school district when it is completed in 1983 but stated the project will be completed to late to benefit the 1982-83 school year.

James Ginn asked if approving the proposed budget for this coming year would be like 'closing the barn door after the horse is out.'

"Shouldn't we look at cutting the budget more this year?" he asked.

Later he questioned if it would be better to cut some of the budget this year and again next year instead of waiting and cutting it all next year.

Trustees asked McQueen what he would do, and McQueen answered, "If I were you I would try and cut some more this year."

The trustees then questioned the amount of money paid to substitute teachers and the number of sick days allowed to each teacher to determine if cut could be made in that area.

Trustee Virginia Gex suggested cutting the telephone bill.

Walter Turcotte said teachers salaries would not be able to be increased next year.

Ginn said salaries did not really affect the budget.

McCullough agreed, noting the state determines the salary increases.

have the Pascagoula man blinded. The motel manager allegedly offered $500 to the man to commit the proposed assault on the Pascagoula resident," Peterson added.

Identity of the person contacted by Sands also was not revealed by Peterson.

The man told the policeman and motel manager he would think about their proposal, Peterson said he was told.

The man returned to the motel Sunday afternoon, wired with a listening device provided by the State Bureau of Narcotics, according to Peterson.

The motel owner allegedly gave the man a $100 down payment. Sands was not present at the meeting, the sheriff said.

The Pascagoula man who was to be harmed allegedly owes the motel manager $30,000, Peterson reports.

"During the Sunday conversation with the motel manager, the 'hit man' was allegedly offered $15,000 of a $30,000 ransom the motel owner would demand if the 'hit man' could kidnap the Pascagoula man's son," Peterson added.

Sands was released on a $5,000 bond and Bharathkumar on a $10,000 bond and both are awaiting a preliminary hearing before Justice Court Judge John Chevis on July 28.

Bay St. Louis Mayor Larry Bennett reported Wednesday that Sands was immediately relieved of duty as a police officer.

OTHER ARRESTS

In other police activities, Investigator Seay reports the arrest of one person and the issuance of warrants for two others to Louisiana police in the burglary of a Bay St. Louis residence.

The residence of Cliff and Lillian Roberts allegedly took place about July 7 while the couple was on vacation.

Seay said he arrested David Stringer 18, 304 Union St., Bay St. Louis Tuesday and charged him with burglary of a residence.

Items reportedly taken in the burglary include old coins and assorted jewelry of which some has been recovered in Louisiana, Seay said.

The investigator reports the house was ransacked and vandalized. Stringer is lodged in the Hancock Jail under a $5,000 bond awaiting a preliminary hearing before Justice Court Judge John Chevis.

Carbon monoxide hazard found in mobile furnace

A program to repair as many as 55,000 liquid propane and natural gas furnaces used in mobile homes is being conducted by the manufacturer because the furnaces may pose a risk of death or poisoning by leaking carbon monoxide gas if portions of the vent system corrode.

The repair program pertains to all model MMG

"Miller" brand gas furnaces manufactured by the HOME Division of Lear Siegler, Inc., of Holland, Michigan. The firm, in voluntary cooperation with the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission, has agreed to replace the flue-pipe extension within the furnaces.

Corrosion in the flue-pipe extension and vent system may permit carbon monoxide gas to be emitted into the living areas. CPSC has been informed of 19 deaths since 1969, which have been associated with carbon monoxide leakage from the MMG model furnaces.

Approximately 46,000 furnaces were manufactured from 1964 through 1971, and an additional 9,000 furnaces were converted to liquid propane or natural gas, although it is unlikely that all of the furnaces still are functional because of their age. The furnaces were sold exclusively for use in mobile homes, either as original equipment or as replacement appliances.

Mobile home owners should check their gas furnaces for the presence of the "Miller" brand name on the top of the louvered door.

Consumers then should identify whether they possess an MMG model by opening the door and determining whether the large vertical pipe inside is approximately five inches across (see attached drawing). If so, consumers should call the manufacturer's toll-free number at 1-800-253-3874 (in Michigan, call collect at 1-616-394-4326). The firm will arrange for free installation of a new flue-pipe extension.

Consumers who are uncertain whether they own an MMG model gas furnace after inspecting the interior pipe are encouraged to contact the manufacturer's toll-free number for assistance in identifying their furnace.

CPSC also is reminding consumers that all gas furnaces require periodic inspections and maintenance by qualified personnel in order to detect such hazards as vent pipe corrosion. Consumers should contact their local heating contractor for suggestions on arranging such inspections.

CPSC operates a toll-free

Hotline to assist consumers with problems relating to the health and safety aspects of products. Consumers may contact the Hotline at 800-638-8326; in Maryland, call 800-492-8363; in Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands, call 800-638-8333.

Pregnant woman injured in Cadet boating mishap

By ELLIS CUEVAS

A pregnant woman was injured in a boating accident Sunday night when she jumped into the water from a disabled boat in the mouth of Bayou Cadet.

Mrs. Joanna Dubreuil sustained four broken ribs and a collapsed lung. Cathy Savage, director of nurses at Hancock General, reports that she was transferred to Gulfport Memorial Wednesday afternoon, apparently in a stable condition.

The accident occurred around 10:15 p.m. Sunday when a 30-foot shrimp boat, the Debbie Ann, captained by Roddie Bilbo of Bay St. Louis, struck an 18-foot boat which had motor problems outside the bayou, according to Bureau of Marine Resources officers.

Hancock Sheriff Ronald Peterson said his office received a call reporting the accident and the Hancock dispatcher called the Bureau of Marine Resources because the accident was in their jurisdiction.

Mrs. Dubreuil, of Lakeshore, and another of three passengers on the disabled boat jumped overboard before the collision.

She was struck by the shrimp boat before the collision.

The other two passengers were Ronnie Goodman of Lakeshore and Errol Billot of Terrebonne, Ala. who were reportedly uninjured.

Bilbo pulled the two from the water and called Mobile Medic. The disabled boat did not show any running lights, and a lantern the boat had been using burned out before the time of the collision, according to officers.

Locate markets before growing field tomatoes

By BARRY W. JONES

Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service

TAYLORSVILLE—When it comes to growing field-grown, vine-ripened tomatoes, some Mississippi growers think nothing is more important to the crop than a good marketing plan.

James Ford, who farms near Taylorsville, and Clyde Magee, who farms near Mize, both agree that a good marketing plan is the first step producers should take before putting tomatoes in the ground. The two farmers vary their production and marketing practices, but both get similar results. They successfully sell the tomatoes they grow.

Ford, who produced 14 acres this year, sells his crop exclusively to one retail outlet, Delchamps. He is one of a number of growers across the South selling tomatoes this way. He essentially bypasses a middleman by going straight to the retailer with his crop. He has been selling tomatoes this way for three years.

Here's how Ford's strategy works: He watches the field and, when there are a few hundred pounds of ripe tomatoes, he picks them and takes them home. Local people come in and buy those early tomatoes.

When Ford's volume gets too great for those local markets, he uses a local vegetable jobber for a short time until his volume gets large enough to justify trucking tomatoes to the Delchamps warehouse in Mobile.

From that point on until his crop production diminishes, Ford picks and trucks tomatoes to Delchamps.

He also sells directly to the retailer, but instead of one retail outlet, he sells to a number of different stores. These are markets he has contacted personally and developed over the years.

Like Ford, he grades his tomatoes on the farm, but he varies his packing operation from Ford's. Magee has geared his program to packed uniform sizes of number one quality tomatoes in 20-pound boxes.

He also sells some tomatoes directly to local customers at his packing shed.

Both tomato growers agree that developing markets before producing tomatoes is the key to success.

Early trains—hot and dusty—were the only way to travel

By S. G. THIGPEN

The first 30 years of my life people rode the trains when they went anywhere. If one lived out in the country some distance away from the railroad he would go by horse power to the nearest railway station and catch a train to his destination.

Long cross country trips like people make today were not made in the old days due to time consumed and difficulty of travel.

From my business in Picaune to the town of Nicholson is 3 1/2 miles. When I went into business in 1919 almost all travel between Picaune and Nicholson was by train. People from Nicholson would catch passenger train No. 6 at about 8 a.m. to come to Picaune. They would do their banking and other business, then wait around to catch train No. 5 back home about 2:30 p.m.

People living out from Picaune would come into town, hitch their horses and go the 25 miles to Poplarville, the county seat on the morning train and come back on the early afternoon train, spending almost a whole day to go the county seat and return. Now, they make this round trip much more conveniently in much less time.

In summer back in the old days a train ride was a dusty and dirty ordeal. There were no fans, no air conditioning and one would arrive at destination dirty and sweaty, and smoked up from the belching smoke from the locomotive pulling the train.

We thought nothing of it at the time because we knew of no better way to travel.

When I tell things like this to younger people, even those up to 50 years of age they often cannot believe it as they have never experienced travel in this way. It is as far out of their experience as the travel by ox team before the railroads were built. I went to school from 1910 to Mississippi A & M College—now, Mississippi State University. I got on the train at Bay Springs on a hot early September day. After several hours the train arrived at Ackerman where I had to change trains.

I paid a man with a 1-horse wagon $5.00 to carry my trunk over to the other depot. I walked over a dusty road to the other depot. After waiting about 3 hours the train for Starkville arrived. It was a freight train with an old dilapidated passenger coach hitched on to the back end.

To go the short distance from Ackerman to Starkville took 2 or 3 hours on that hot day as the train stopped at at least two stations and did some switching. The train arrived in Starkville about a little before sun down.

A drayman hauled my trunk to the college. I walked the about two miles along with two other boys who were on the same train.

When boys went off to school in 1909 and for sometime thereafter, they stayed from about Sept. 1 until the Christmas holidays—no weekly running back and forth as so many do now. Contrast my experiences with that of boys going to school today in comfortable cars in a traction of the time it took not so long ago.

I am not complaining for I travelled in the best way possible in my time. I am simply trying to show how modes of travel have changed in such a short time.

Back 50 years and more ago, the railway depot was the center of activity, especially in smaller towns.

People back then would go to the depot to see the trains come in and depart, to see who was on the trains and to see who got on and who got off.

In most smaller places no newspapers or magazines were sold 50 and more years ago.

Many people met the trains to buy from the butcher boy the reading material they were interested in, and to buy fruits, candies, etc.

The butcher on a public conveyance is no more—they have disappeared like the frock tail coat and the derby hat that men wore when I was a boy.

There are several definitions of the word butcher, one being, "A vendor of candy, etc. on trains." I met the trains often back years ago to buy the Saturday Evening Post, the Cosmopolitan Magazine and other reading material.

Not only are there now no butcher boys but also there are no passenger trains, and even no depots in many places.

Back in 1912 when I first came to Pearl River County we went everywhere by train.

It took me 2 days by train to go to Gulfport and back in 1914. I went on the Southern train to Hattiesburg, spent the night and caught a G & SI to Gulfport.

I came back by way of New Orleans. Now I make that trip, attend to business and get back home in 3 or 4 hours.

Fifty years ago I'd leave Picaune on train 41 and get to New Orleans in the early morning. I'd catch the first train back, leaving New Orleans about 3 or 4 p.m., spending a whole day.

Now I drive to New Orleans in 40 minutes, attend to business and if in a hurry get back home within 2 to 3 hours after leaving. I now drive to Bogalusa and back in a couple of hours, while it took two days to go by train back in the old days and return.

The changes in the last 50 to 60 years are almost unbelievable. No wonder younger folks are skeptical when we tell them of the old days.

Money Talk

By Norine Barnes

Clothes make a difference! In some you feel smart and confident—in others you feel drab and self-conscious. When you look your best, you do your best.

Over the years, you spend a sizable amount of money to clothe yourself and your family. You can get more value and satisfaction from the clothes you buy if you learn to dress well on the amount of money you have to spend.

This involves thoughtful planning, skillful shopping, and proper clothing care.

Careful planning is the first step in being well dressed. Since it is rarely, if ever, possible to build an entirely new wardrobe, start with what you have. Then determine what you need and how much you can spend.

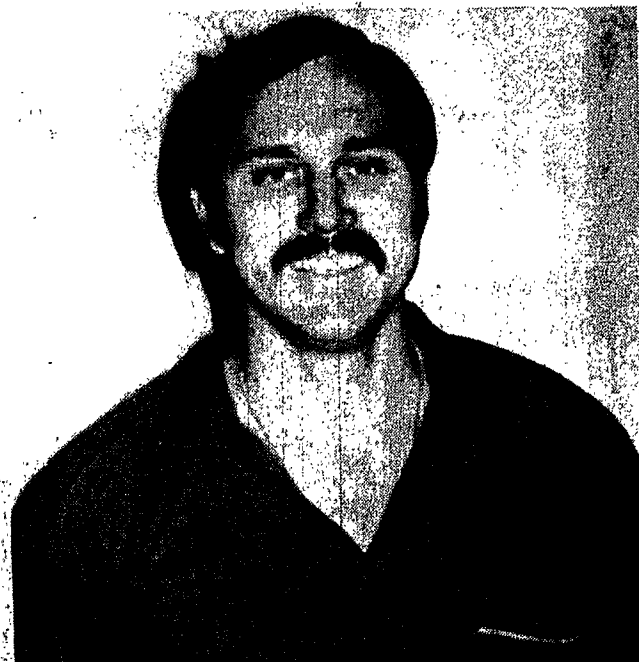

Go through your closet and pick out the garments that you can and will wear. Discard the others. You may have to be firm with yourself. If you haven't worn a garment in a year, chances are that you aren't going to wear it.

Now that you know what you have on hand and also what you are planning to keep, you can begin to plan items needed to complete your wardrobe. Keep in mind that to build a wardrobe based on your clothing needs:

—Choose basic styles that can be dressed up or down for different occasions. A tailored suit or dress can be casual, or dressy, depending on the accessories used.

—Plan around one or two basic color groups so clothes will go well together. If most of your clothing belongs to the same color family, such as browns, oranges, and golds, you can mix and match more of your garments and accessories.

—Choose accessories to go with different outfits. One pair of shoes and one handbag can go with a number of dresses. One shirt and tie can be worn with several suits.

Volunteer fire departments to lose county revenue money

By BRENT MACEY

Hancock County Board of Supervisors attorney Walter Gex Monday informed the board its annual appropriation of federal revenue sharing funds to the county's volunteer fire departments must be stopped.

Following Gex's revelation, the board approved transferring two percent of the revenue sharing budget formerly used to support fire departments to a road and bridge repair fund.

Gex informed the supervisors that state statutes do not allow the county to appropriate money to non-profit organizations, a statute which has been overlooked by the supervisors in the past.

Robert Boudin, county civil defense director, said some $7,000 appropriated in the past has been used to support nine volunteer fire units in the county.

Gex explained the statute allows each volunteer fire department only $250 of county money plus money obtained through insurance rebates.

He stated the only way money could be appropriated to the departments would be if the county owned and operated the fire equipment—a move which would then require all fire department employees be paid at least a minimum wage.

The supervisors agreed that the state law was a "bad one" and passed a resolution requesting State Sen. Martin Smith and Rep. J.P. Compert to attempt to change the law at the next meeting of the legislature.

Supervisor Roger Dale Ladner requested the board take the matter under advisement until the next meeting; however, Board President Alton (Dolph) Kellar informed Ladner action had to be taken during Monday's meeting because the intentions of the board concerning allocation of revenue sharing funds must be published this week.

Board members then agreed to transfer the money to the road and bridge repair fund until some legal alternative can be found to allow appropriating money to the fire departments.

They agreed to attempt to find that alternative before their next meeting Aug. 3.

In other business, the board heard from Leslie A. Page, spokesman for Garden Isle Subdivision Community Association, regarding the use of revenue funds for the Garden Isle Subdivision in Bay St. Louis.

Monday's meeting at 10 a.m. became a public hearing for revenue sharing fund appropriations.

Page requested money for street repairs in the subdivision, at least enough money to elevate and pave some 2.2 miles of streets in the subdivision.

Page also requested money be allocated for street signs and speed limit signs and asked if the county would connect two canals with culvert if the association bought the culvert.

Board members agreed to help the subdivision with all the proposals and James Travirca, supervisor representing the subdivision, said he would begin paving the road as soon as one other road paving obligation was completed.

Page also requested land needed to park a fire truck be allocated by the county. The board agreed to have the area surveyed to determine how much land is needed.

Also during the meeting the board heard a request from Nicholas Haas, Bay St. Louis attorney representing citizens in the Shoreline Park Subdivision, concerning vacating a portion of Comanche Street leading to a boat docking area.

Haas explained that the public is launching boats at the ramp and then blocking the road with their parked trailers and making the area inaccessible to subdivision residents.

He said people in the subdivision park their cars and trailers on private lots after launching boats and therefore are not blocking the ramp.

"It's the general public which is causing the problem. Our people can't use it (the ramp) because the public is using it," Haas said. He asked the board to abandon the road and have that property divided equally between two adjoining property owners.

The board took the matter under advisement.

Also during the Monday meeting in the Hancock County Courthouse, the supervisors:

—Approved having Hancock County join a newly created Mississippi Medical Examiner Medical District consisting of 24 other southern Mississippi counties;

—Adopted a resolution to contact Gulf Coast Mosquito Control in Gulfport and request that organization spray the county to alleviate the mosquito problem. Supervisors Bert Courge and Travirca said they have had numerous complaints from citizens in their beats concerning the numbers of mosquitos this year.

Former representative gives wastewater view

By BRENT MACEY

Perry Gibson, a Hancock County representative to the Mississippi Gulf Coast Regional Wastewater Authority, submitted a report to the county board of supervisors Monday concerning his position as former member of that commission.

Gibson, along with other representatives of communities which did not join the three-county wastewater authority, was removed from the commission over one month ago.

His report, read by board of supervisor's attorney Walter Gex, states Gibson makes no attempt to determine what is best for Bay St. Louis or Waveland.

"My observations and recommendations are for Hancock County alone," the report states.

Gibson said he began to have "serious doubts" about the advisability of Hancock County joining the authority shortly after he became a member of the commission.

"I felt that as Hancock County did not have a collection system or treatment facilities it would be unwise to obligate ourselves to a 99-year commitment to a $120 million or more debt to solve another's problem," he stated in the report.

In a telephone interview Tuesday, Gibson said he felt there has been enough study of the county's needs in the commission's plans.

"As far as I can determine, although they looped Hancock County in with it (Waveland, Bay St. Louis and the entire three-county system) no serious engineering studies were ever conducted to determine what the cost would be to serve the county."

He recommended in the report that the county engineers or other experts determine feasible sites near each area of population concentration in the county and secure options to purchase this land for "a soil dispersal method of wastewater treatment."

However, Gibson does state "it may be feasible to contract with the Waveland Authority for wastewater treatment in the Clermont Harbor, Bayside Park and Shoreline Park areas."

But he adds, "land dispersal may be preferable here also."

He stated in the report that he makes that recommendation as a layman and not as an expert and added his report reflects his voting record as a member of the commission.

MANOR BORN

The dilemma of Audrey Forbes-Hamilton (sic), recently widowed aristocrat, is dramatically and comically told in "To the Manor Born," which will be rebroadcast at 6 p.m., Saturdays, beginning July 25, on the Mississippi ETV Network. The series was first aired on ETV last summer.

Now that she's widowed, Audrey (Penelope Keith) finds that she is broke and forced to sell the family estate. She is relegated to a small cottage on the end of the property, but she's determined to climb back up the social ladder and ventures out daily in hopes of winning over the manor's new owner—a mysterious millionaire—who unfortunately was not "to the manor born."

This comedy series pitting new money against old society dignitaries Peter Forbes as the object of Audrey's schemes.

MANAGE BEEF

The economics of producing beef cattle demands increased efficiency. The reproductive efficiency in Mississippi beef herds is about 70 percent. Here are some practices that will help to increase this percentage.

Cattle handling facilities - Without adequate facilities, proper health and management practices are difficult or impossible to perform.

Record system - Individual identification lets you control inventory as well as recognize economically efficient animals.

Nutrition programs - Nutrition can't be overemphasized in reproductive performance. Follow nutrition recommendations for each class of cattle you intend to feed.

Pregnancy testing - This increases weaning rates and gives more pounds of beef per cow wintered. Removing non-pregnant cows from the herd immediately lowers feed costs and raises production efficiency.

Culling - Base your decision to cull animals on disposition as well as on physical characteristics such as soundness of teeth, eyes, udder, feet and legs.

Bull power - Evaluate bulls for breeding soundness within 30 days from the onset of breeding. Base cow rations according to location, age of bulls and your particular operation.

Disease control - A disease control program that protects cattle from reproductive diseases plays a major role in increasing reproductive efficiency.

For more detailed information and planning, contact the county Extension office or your local veterinarian.

JOHNSONGRASS

You can apply Roundup herbicide to control johnsongrass in soybeans by using a properly designed rope wick applicator. Johnsongrass should be at least 18 inches tall and at least 8 inches taller than the soybean plants.

The amount to apply depends on the weed infestation. Position the wick bar two to four inches above soybeans so they won't be injured by the herbicide. You may combine the treatment with cultivation, but top speed should be three miles per hour.

Repeat application as needed to control johnsongrass that later grows above soybeans. You'll get best results when the johnsongrass is growing actively in good soil moisture, warm temperatures and high humidity.

Contact the county Extension Office for application rates and other weed control recommendations for soybeans.

The documentary, endorsed by the National Mental Health Association, takes a nationwide look at both the disasters of community mental health care and the exceptional programs they offer that provide supportive after-care for discharged mental patients.

Bay St. Louis All Stars win state championship

WE'RE NUMBER ONE!—Members of the Bay St. Louis all star team celebrate following presentation of trophy by Parks and Playground Director, Billy Rhodes. The Bay squad whipped the Biloxi all stars, 17-3, Saturday night to take the state championship in the ten-year-old division.

By Randy Ponder

The Bay St. Louis all star baseball squad captured the state championship in the 10 year old division Saturday night at McDonald Field with a 17-3 smashing of the Biloxi all stars.

Coached by brothers, A.J. and Rickey Geoffrey, the team reached the state finals by winning the Western Division playoffs. In that tournament the Bay St. Louis all stars defeated Central Harrison 16-10, Waveland 23-3, and Hancock Harrison 6-3. All of these games were played at the new county ball park in Kiln.

After two scoreless innings the Bay nine broke the contest

RBI. Joe Lee dropped a single into leftfield, putting runners on first and second for Mike Necaise. The Bay hitting streak continued as Necaise collected a two base hit to plate another run for the hometown team. Terry LeBourgeois pushed a run across with a single and Bennie Tillman collected two runs batted in with a single.

Scott Heitzmann walked for his second appearance in the inning. At the point the Biloxi squad made a pitching change and the new hurler recorded an out the first man he faced. However, Robert Durney stopped that string at one in a row by punching a single to load the bases.

two gift wrapped runs to the Bay team by virtue of five consecutive walks. Rocky Rhodes picked up the first hit of the inning, driving in a run with a single. Travis Haynes followed with another single for two RBIs and Joe Lee rounded out the scoring by slamming a double up the middle, pushing two runs across the plate.

The fifth frame was the only bright spot for the Biloxi all stars as they scored three times to avert a possible shutout.

Bennie Tillman's inside the park homerun in the bottom of the fifth accounted for Bay St. Louis' final run.

ALL STAR SLUGGER—Robert Durney of the Bay St. Louis all star team connects for a base hit during early inning action of the state championship game, played at McDonald Field Saturday evening. Durney collected 2 singles, 1 double, and two walks in the contest that Bay St. Louis won 17-3.

Following a strikeout, Doug Powers drew a base on balls to earn an RBI the easy way for the final tally of the stanza. The next hitter struckout. Biloxi failed to score in the fourth but not the Bay all stars who came roaring right back for 7 more runs to put the contest completely out of reach.

After a ground out, the Biloxi pitching staff delivered wide open with 9 runs in the third frame. Scott Heitzmann started things off with a single. Cedric Smith walked and Robert (Twinkle) Durney followed with a double to center, driving in one run. HEALTH PROFESSIONALS—J. E. Lolacano, left, owner of Lolacano's Health Club in Bay St. Louis, and Dr. Richard H. Hawkins, Gulfport and Waveland orthodontist, confer with natural foods cookbook author Mary Ann Pickard of Arkansas who discussed her books in a seminar at the health club last week as well as at other locations along the Gulf Coast. Hawkins and Lolacano support the author's view that sugar is a number one enemy of good health, especially for children. Pickard advocates sugar-free cooking in her two works, "Feasting Naturally" and "Feasting Naturally with Your Own Recipes." The books are available at Lolacano's. (Echo staff photo by Edgar Perez)

Gillom joins Ole Miss coaching staff

Peggie Gillom, who became the all-time leading scorer in Lady Rebel basketball history in 1979 and finished her career with 2,486 points, has been named assistant women's basketball coach at Ole Miss. Athletic Director Warner Alford has announced.

Gillom, named All-American following her senior campaign and a finalist for the Wade Trophy, was a second round draft choice of the Dallas Diamonds last year and ended her career there averaging 7.2 points and 3.9 rebounds per game.

The former Ole Miss performer's major responsibilities will be with recruiting and scouting along with on-the-floor coaching.

"We are extremely fortunate in securing the services of a former All-American who will greatly aid our recruiting efforts as well as assist with on-the-floor coaching," Lady Rebel Coach Van Chancellor said.

"We feel that Peggie was not only a great player while she was here, but was also an outstanding person. We're excited to have her join our staff and we know she's going to be a great asset to our program."

In addition to becoming the all-time leading scorer at Ole Miss, Gillom was also the leading rebounder in Lady Rebel history. Her top collegiate performances came against the nation's top teams. She scored 45 points in a win against nationally-ranked Tennessee in Knoxville as a senior, while other high scoring games were 39 against Jackson State and 35 against LSU. In all, she scored 30 points or more nine times for the Lady Rebels.

Comfort edges Oak Downs stretch win

(Special to The Sea Coast Echo)
PARRI, RIVER, La. - It isn't often that Hancock County horses fail to make an appearance in the winner's circle at Oak Downs.

That rarely occurred Sunday when only one Hancock horse competed.

However, jockey Marty Comfort who lives in The Kiln managed to win one race.

Comfort booted home Cotton Pac, owned by Dick Mulford of Wiggins, by a neck over Court At Night in the five-furlong fourth.

Court At Night, owned by Elmo Harless of Hattiesburg, took an early lead and was on top until the final few strides when Comfort shoved Cotton Pac across.

Five of the 10 races Sunday were decided by less than a length. Two races were won by a nose and one by a head.

JoAnn Boatwright of Cantonment, Fla., Oak Downs' leading jockey, was as hot as the weather, winning half of the day's races.

She got off to a good start by winning the first two races. She was aboard-upset winner Kind of Speedy in the five-furlong first and got Mr. Sum Dandy to the finish line a nose ahead of Cupid in the 300-yard second.

Cupid, owned and trained by Donald Cuevas of White Cypress, was the lone Hancock horse to run Sunday at Oak Downs.

The best performance of the day came in the 350-yard eighth as Thomas P. Bailey, owned and trained by Tommy Peterman of Lyman, romped home a 2 1/2-length winner over Smoke Stack, and posted a Top AA time of :18.32.

Jeff Peterman, who usually rides for his father and others at Oak Downs, was out of action Sunday, recovering from a broken arm he suffered the week before.

Little League 'players rights' published by recreation group

Sports activities flourish in the summer months, and that is nowhere more evident than on the Little League baseball fields. Youth sports continue to grow, as do adult sports.

A "Bill of Rights for Young Athletes" has been established in an AASPERD (American Alliance for Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Dance) publication "Youth Sports Guide for Coaches and Parents." Dr. Walter E. Cooper of Hattiesburg is a member of the planning committee responsible for the publication.

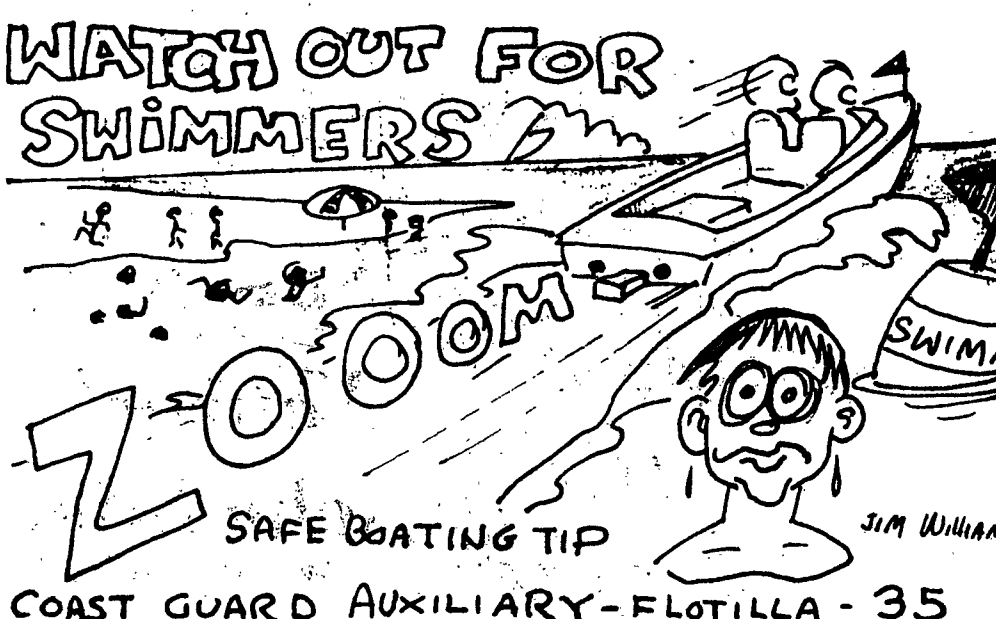

The statement establishes the right of a youngster to participate, improve his or her skills, and enjoy himself or herself, and should be read by every coach and parent. It states that every youth has the right to:

- 1) Have an opportunity to participate in sports regardless of ability level.
- 2) Participate at a level that is commensurate with his or her developmental level.
- 3) Have qualified adult leadership.
- 4) Participate in safe and healthy environments.
- 5) Share in the leadership and decision-making of their sport participation.
- 6) Play as a child and not as an adult.
- 7) Proper preparation in the sport.
- 8) An equal opportunity to strive for success.
- 9) Be treated with dignity by all involved.

10) Have fun through sport.

Many fitness and sports opportunities are being planned for the rest of the summer. The Mississippi Governor's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports is sponsoring a fitness night in conjunction with the Jackson Mets baseball team July 28. Fitness education will be the main function of the event, and those attending the Mets-Midland Cubs game will have opportunities to win fitness equipment and memberships from sporting goods stores and health clubs.

CLARKSDALE TOUR-NAME

The Charles L. Sullivan Memorial Golf Tournament is scheduled for July 25-26 at the Pecan Meadows Country Club in Clarksdale. Qualifying for the two-man scramble tournament is set for Saturday, July 25, with a field of 96 players. Entry fee is $50 per player. All proceeds from the tournament will fund the Charles L. Sullivan Scholarship in the School of Law at The University of Mississippi. Sullivan was a principle founder and first president of the Clarksdale golf course, now known as the Pecan Meadows Country Club.

Governor's Sports Award

The National Multiple Sclerosis Society, Mississippi Chapter, is promoting the MS Mile Swim. The series of events promotes the fitness values of swimming, and is used as a fund-raising project for the MS Society.

A free guideline for road racing has been developed by the Governor's Council. The standards set forth will help people and businesses in our state who are interested in sponsoring races by giving them an idea of what all should be involved. The guidelines will help runners by promoting a safe, well-managed environment in which to race.

A unique event is being planned for August 1 in east central Mississippi. The 2nd Annual Heart O'Dixie triathlon will be contested in Winston and Neshoba counties, ending at the Neshoba County Fair. The event consists of a half-mile swim, 27 1/2-mile bicycle ride and seven-mile run, and is sponsored by the makers of Gatorade thirst-quencher and the Philadelphia Sertoma Club.

Wells, who had a distinguished career with the Rebels as a wingback, earned Academic All-American and Academic All-SEC laurels with Ole Miss teams that played in the Sugar, Bluebonnet and Liberty Bowls.

He also received a National Football Foundation's Scholar-Athlete award, earned BA and MSS degrees from Ole Miss and is currently a doctoral candidate at the University, getting his degree in Student Personnel in Higher Education.

"David Wells is certainly no stranger to Ole Miss," Alford said of the 36-year-old Oxford resident. "We are pleased that he has accepted the position as academic counselor at Ole Miss. He has the qualifications to carry on this most important aspect of our athletic program and will be a fine asset to Ole Miss."

Wells, who has been published in national journals, is a member of the National Athletic Academic Advisors Association. He has been in private business for the past three years.

"I'm very excited about returning to Ole Miss," Wells said. "I look forward to making as many contributions as I possibly can toward the fine athletic and academic traditions that have already been established by past student-athletes at the school."

From 1968 to 1970, Wells served as the commander of a 200-man unit in the U.S. Army. He served in the Army Reserve from 1970 to 1977 and is presently a member of the Mississippi Army National Guard.

He began a coaching career in football in 1970 at Madisonville (Ky.) High School. He head coached the team to a 24-4 record in two seasons and then moved to the University of Kentucky as an

Ole Miss tickets available

The Ole Miss ticket office reports season ticket sales for football games this fall are better than last year at this time.

However, Virginia Hall, Rebel ticket office manager, noted there are still plenty of tickets available to all Ole Miss games, except the Oct. 3 Alabama contest in Tuscaloosa, which was sold out last month.

"We have been pleased with the progress that has been made with our season ticket sales, and we are anticipating our individual orders to pick up," Mrs. Hall said.

"Tickets have been going very briskly for the Sept. 26 Arkansas game, which is our home game in Jackson, and for the Mississippi State game, which is State's game. With last year's capacity at Mississippi Memorial, the Arkansas and LSU games would have already been sold out. But they've added around 20,000 seats to the stadium, so we have more tickets to sell this season."

Mrs. Hall reported that tickets have been going fast for away games with Tulane and Memphis State, and that only a "limited number" of tickets remain for the Arkansas and Mississippi State games.

Individual orders (requests for tickets to single games) are being processed now, and there is no limit on how many of these tickets may be purchased.

To place season or individual ticket orders, write the Ole Miss Ticket Office, P. O. Box 247, University, MS 38677, or call (601) 232-7167. Season tickets are $55 each, while individual tickets are $11 each.

24- IN MEMORIAM

IN LOVING MEMORY OF

WILLIAM WHITEY

DIED JULY 24, 1980

One year has passed since you were so suddenly taken from us. God saw you getting weary. He did what He thought best. He came and stood beside you and whispered come and rest. You bid no one farewell. Not even goodbye. You were gone before we knew it and only God knows why. It broke our hearts to lose you. But you did not go alone. For part of us went with you. The day God called you home. God gave us strength to bear it. Courage to take the blow. But what it meant to lose you, Whitey, God will only know. Sadly missed by Sisters and Brothers

Trio to judge Miss Hospitality Pageant

Judges for the 1981 Miss Hospitality Pageant continuing in Biloxi tonight through Saturday, July 22-25, will select one young lady from among 70 contestants from all over Mississippi to represent the state at official functions, plant openings, travel shows and other activities throughout the state, nation and in foreign countries.

The Miss Hospitality program, now in its 32nd year, is sponsored by the Mississippi Department of Economic Development. Pageant judges this year include actress Beverly Garland, perhaps best known for her role as mother and wife in the long-running TV series, My Three Sons. She has been selected honorary Mayor of North Hollywood for the fifth consecutive year.

Currently, she and her husband Fillmore Crank Sr. operate a complex titled Beverly Garland's Howard Johnson Resort Lodge in North Hollywood.

She is active in promoting tourism to the San Fernando Valley through membership in the National Tour Brokers Association, Travel Industry Association, National Passenger Traffic Association and the American Society of Association Executives.

Also judging is Bill Carpenter, vice president and general manager of Tauck Tours, Inc., headquartered in Westport, Conn.

His responsibilities include product development, quality control and negotiations with the firm's suppliers — hotels, restaurants, carriers and scenic attractions.

Carpenter received his training as a food and sanitation inspector with the Air Force in Europe, along with a post-military hitch as a Tauck Tour director and a cruise staff member with Swedish-American Lines.

While in the military, he attended the University of Maryland, Overseas Division, where he majored in English and history.

He is currently treasurer and board member of the National Tour Brokers Association, a 2,000 member trade association of the motor coach tour industry in North America.

He works closely with state and national government and has addressed many travel related groups during his 18 years in the industry.

Leonard R. Barnes is editor of "AAA Michigan Living," the official publication of the Automobile Club of Michigan in Dearborn.

The magazine is the state's largest circulation publication with 820,000 copies monthly. He was creator in 1961 of Auto Club's "Bring 'Em Back Alive."

He serves as chairman of the Michigan Travel Commission and is a member of many travel, civic and journalism organizations.

In 1978, the Michigan Legislature recognized him as the "voice of travel and tourism across Michigan and the Midwest" and as a pioneer in the promotion of Michigan's tourist industry.

Governor William Winter and reigning Miss Hospitality Tena Rayborn will crown the new winner in Mississippi Coast Coliseum Ceremonies beginning 8 p.m. Saturday. Admission is free and the public is invited.

Student aid cuts reported at State

With the completion of Congressional budget cuts in student financial aid, Mississippi State University has begun notifying its applicants of the changes in their aid packages.

"We had already sent allocation letters to about 1,500 applicants, and we'll have to go back and revise those allocations," said Larry Blankenship, MSU financial aid director. "Students qualifying for the National Direct Student Loan and Supplemental Grants may receive $100-200 less than they expected to get."

The financial aid money allotted to MSU will be allocated on a first come, first served basis until the money is depleted. Students who submitted complete applications by April 1, 1981, will have first priority. The rest of the applications will be evaluated on a month-to-month basis, depending upon when they were submitted.

"Mississippi State is going to lose a little more financial aid money than we thought because Congress not only approved the Reagan budget as a whole package, but gave him more than he asked," Blankenship said.

He anticipates a loss of $1.75 million in financial aid money for Mississippi State in 1981-82. Approximately $1 million will be cut from the National Direct Student Loan, Supplemental Grants and College Work-Study programs, with the remainder coming from the Pell Opportunity (basic) Grant program. Many students who thought they would qualify for basic grants will not.

While allocations from the federal government are tentative, Blankenship believes Congress has completed the budget cuts in student financial aid.

"I expect any further changes in financial aid programs for 1981-82 to be regulatory in nature," Blankenship said.

One program — Federally Insured Loan program which involves the student and a private lender — is currently being administered under the Carter Administration guidelines. Blankenship believes the new, tighter guidelines will go into effect Oct. 1.

"We're processing an unusually high number of applications for Federally Insured Loans and for financial aid in general at this point," Blankenship said.

Last July, students made approximately 2,700 applications.
